The Late Session of the Legislature.

The Legislature of 1853 assembled under peculiar circumstances. The people of Wisconsin had determined to vindicate their standard according to the principles of the Ordinance of '87, violated by the late Congress, and to send representatives to Madison who would take some steps to stay the tide of extravagance which was sweepingly increasing their taxes, with no corresponding return.

They accordingly went solemnly to the polls last fall and cast their votes for the men who, as they believed, would do their duty.

There might be others, whom we have omitted, but these now occur to us as having been almost always true to the best interests of the State. Administrators were to be met and overthrown.

The result was, not as complete as might be desired, yet far better than our hopes, and a strong, satisfactory to the friends of Freedom and Reform. A small majority was secured in the Assembly, and a much larger brought into the Senate, so that a few Independent gentlemen and two or three who returned to the cause of freedom through the support of their party friends, when they believed their strong and good had been accomplished.

Hopes were at first on aridized soil of a very short season, but the election of U. S. Senator was suspended for weeks, in consequence of the result of the documents in the Senate to go into the ballot, and it was not in the meantime ascertained upon the files. Coming to the election at last, the Republicans, after very brief debating on the side of Charles Durkee—a thoroughly upright friend of freedom to the United States Senate, to succeed Mr. Walker, in a thorough union and harmony as between the Republians could alone have ensured, and was a thing unique in the history of our party.

The Governor, in his Annual Message, had organized the Legislature and State upon the very full and reliable reports from the State of Iowa, and, doubtless, to a less enlightened public, and, in effect, "you are in there," an accurate and faithful, are communicated by a partisan press and all others a full investigation of the state of affairs, so that the people may vindictively vote.

The reports from two of the offices, those of the State and School Land Office, came in with remarkable dispatch, and, on being examined, the first was found to exhibit a large sum of the State, which, if based on a census, would have been largely inaccurate, but, ascertained it was manifestly under-rated and suspicion while the other was to kill the most important pillar from the officers, secured at the "elections" cast upon them, and, in effect, "look at their Report!"

It became known that the Governor and his friends the Lawless Asylum Commissioners had, however, which compassed an expenditure of $32,000 or thereabouts, taken a course which, it is believed, at once, would involve the State in a very large expense.

In fact, everything which was touched upon exhibited signs of wrong—and the Treasury began to tremble, in spite of the Secretary of State, Mayor—and more complaints came up from the proper direction to the Land Office. It was then that a new searching investigation into the course of all its acts, was made, and could be directed by Legislative Committees sitting at home, and a Committee was appointed to devise a plan for reorganization, while others were at work to take summary upon a few points immediately before the Legislature. The various documents made by these Committees are before the public at present. We have published some in full, and others have been widely circulated.

One of the most important, the Lawless Asylum Report, we hope to make room for shortly, but the public are aware, the following facts are among others, before the people at the result of the session of the Legislature.

That the Governor had committed, in absence of their authority as agents of the State funds in contract, wilfully and knowingly, for an enormous sum, a hideous bill, and, in the execution and fitting up for use, would cost half a million of dollars.

The sum of the State, being in a somewhat financial condition, with a prospect of $200,000 surplus on the 1st of January, 1856, as contrasted by the Secretary of State, the Treasury in view of the time of nearly or quite $200,000, and the people were to be taxed $200,000 this year, and the same the Treasurer informs us, will not be enough to $250,000!

The creation and practice of gross favoritism, and the most enormous and inexcusable blunders, are found in the School Land Office, to the great detriment of the people and the sacred School Fund.

That the State, in a compact, and, with its accessories and fitting up for use, would cost half a million of dollars.

"Documentary History" which has already cost nearly $200,000, with no corresponding benefit, but on the contrary a disgrace to the State—and that was pocketed at once!

They passed a bill providing for a thorough investigation of the affairs of the State Office, which had been called for by the Government—saying it to be for the officers, and demanded by the people—and all the more demanded on account of the developments of this case on, and the Governor vetoed it! Vetoed it, in tone and language more disgraceful to himself, and an indignity to the Legislature; and by drumming up the whole force of his party, with the aid of two recent Republicans, enough members were found to prevent its passage over the Veto. So much for the anxiety for investigation, evinced by the State Officers.

The Legislature has passed over 100 General and about 400 Private and Local Laws, besides a large number of appropriation bills. It has been a hardworking, and little talking Legislature—hardly less dead than the session last year—but the people of the session, that is, the Legislature of 1854, by some $30,000. It has saved the State nearly $500,000 in the Army-muster.

Full credit should be given to the few Democrats and Independents, who have, throughout the session, voted with the Republicans on every question of reform, and Moses, Gill, Roffo, Deacon, P. H. Smith, Romay, Van-Nest, Gibb, and Whiting, deserve the bulk of their credit. There might be others, whom we have omitted, but these now occur to us as having been almost always true to the best interests of the State. Administrators were to be met and overcome.

The last was, not as complete as might be desired, yet far better than our hopes, and a strong, satisfactory to the friends of Freedom and Reform.

They accordingly went solemnly to the polls last fall and cast their votes for the men who, as they believed, would do their duty.

There might be others, whom we have omitted, but these now occur to us as having been almost always true to the best interests of the State.

Among the important General Laws of the session are the following:

Repealing all Ensign Law.

Providing all states of land except to actual settlers.

Providing for sale of forfeited School lands.

Providing for the purchase of Stationery for State offices.

For protection and pre-emption of Swamp lands.

Providing for the Census.

Relating to the rights of married women under the Matrimonial Act.

Providing for the Matrimonial Act.

Providing for the Land office from entering.

For protection of laborers on railroads.

Letting the people propose in season for the first desperate struggle with the border ruffians as well as on the manner change-on of these unprincipled leaders, for to meet the people that a desperate fight will be made, and we carry our appeal to them.

Judicial Election.

The election passed off quietly, yesterday, and a two-thirds vote was polled. The supporters of Judge Crawford pled the "free trade in liquor" issue very successfully, and swelled his vote a hundred hundred in this city, by representing Mr. Colby as the Temperance, and Mr. Gage as the Anti-Temperance candidate for Supreme Court Judge! The following is the result of his Wards:

Crawford. - 1st Ward, 273; 2d Ward, 899; 3d Ward, 560; 4th Ward, 141; 5th Ward, 182; Majority for Crawford—240.

Correspondence of the session.

M. & M. Bell Head.—The Contract Let!

We are glad to announce that the Board of Directors of the M. & M. Rail Road yesterday accepted the proposition, which they had had for some days under advisement, for the extension of their road to the Mississippi, and have put it under contract accordingly. The road is to be finished ready for use, as far as Black Earth, 92 miles west of Madison, by the 1st of December next, and completed to the Mississippi by the 1st of December following, 1856. The contractors are Meers, Cox & Lockwood, both of whom have had ample experience in the management and prosecution of extensive works of Public Improvement. The Company on their part, will need the aid of the city credit, to the amount of $200,000, to enable them to meet the cost of the road, and, we trust, will be repaid by the contractors.
